

When will I ever use this?

There has probably been a time during school when you've thought about the question above. Think about careers that use the skills you are learning in your classes. Make a list of your classes in the first column. Then list at least 2 careers that are related to that class in the second column. Follow the example. Visit the Career Search at www.vacareerview.org for help finding careers. When you have completed the table, go back and place a star next to the classes that interest you the most. Then circle the careers that interest you the most for each of your favorite classes.
